London, August 15.—Lord Cowdray, better known as Sir Weetman Pearson, has again buckled on his armor and proposes to light his antagonists of the Standard Oil off the oil fields of Mexico. He will leave London at the end of this month, going first to New York and thence to Mexico by way of St. Louis. This is the trip which he ought to have taken last spring, buildeemed it advisable not to venture into the country where violent fouds were raging between his and the Waters-Pierce interests.

During these months of comparative quiet, Lord Cowdray has thoroughly organized his resources and his campaign will be aggressive, no quarter being shown. He realizes it will be a battle to the death, but it is his boast that he has never been worsted in any financial contest. He has expressed to his friends his willingness to spend every dollar to maintain the control and supremacy of his oil fields.

Lord Cowdray's reappearance in Mexico will probably be the signal for a renewal of hostilities, and it is also expected that the Standard Oil, with its huge resources, Will not only fight him in Mexico, but that during his absence it will conduct a formidable campaign in England.

No additional news has been received from the seat of trouble. It is said that the fifty or more tongers, who pulled private stakes from Days Point to Mulberry Point Thursday, confident of having arted within their rights, are making no effort to conceal their identity. They have about cleared the river of stakes placed on what they claim to be natural oyster rocks, and no further trouble is expected immediately.

If the planters should attempt to convert the stakes, without the support of police boats, however, there is no saying what might happen. Inspector Lawson said to-night that he would go to Days Point with the police fleet, and secure warrants against all of the stake pullers, who can be identified.

The cases will be tried before an Isle of Wight magistrate. Mr. and Mrs. James Garwood O'Keeffe, and little son, James Garwood O'Keeffe, Jr., of Newark, N. The inspector declares that the stakes torn up were lawfully placed, according to lines furnished by the county surveyor, the planters having leased the grounds from the State. Even though the surveyor made the mistake of including portions of the natural rock in the grounds to be leased, the inspector says, the State would have to protect the interests of the planters against the belligrent tongers. The coyster season will not begin until September 15. During the closed season, the tongers are not allowed to touch the natural rocks, and they resent what they term encroaching upon the rocks by the private planters.

If You Didn't Drink

Drinking cuts down your earning power. And in time will cut it off altogether. Because people lose confidence in a man who drinks. If you are working for yourself you will lose your customers—and if you work for some one else you'll lose

You may shut your eyes to this fact for a time—and try to think you are an exception to the rule. But you're not. For as long as you have a cause you will have an effect. Just as long as you keep on drinking it will cost you a big money loss. A greater and greater loss as time goes on, until it amounts to hundreds or even thousands of dollars every year.

There's just one way to stop all this loss and that is to get at the root of things. Cut out the effect by cutting out the cause—the desire for drink.

Come to the Keeley Institute at Greensboro, and you will get all your old earning power back again. In four weeks of our treatment you will be just as keen a business man as you aver were. With all your old energy, clear judgment and steady nerves. And the cure will be worth a thousand times what
